Big Joe by Blue Giant Electric Stacker Combines Advanced Technology with Basic Value

Brampton, ON, Canada (December 2011) –Blue Giant Equipment Corporation has launched the PDS30, the latest in the company’s successful line of Big Joe by Blue Giant AC-powered industrial trucks. Featuring enhanced ergonomics and a super-efficient AC drive system, the PDS30 offers greater operating flexibility and longer run times than DC-powered models.

“The PDS30 represents the latest in material handling technology, but it’s easy to operate and maintain,” says Jeff Miller, Blue Giant’s Vice-President of Sales and Marketing. “It offers the added advantage of maneuverability in tight locations, making it an ideal solution for crowded stockrooms and busy warehouses.”

The PDS30 can handle up to 3,000 lbs in freight load and features a high torque AC-drive motor, I-beam mast construction, a 224 AH maintenance-free battery pack, and crawl speed travel control. Maximum available lift height is 177”, while collapsed masts can be as low as 71”. Travel, lifting, and lowering functions are located in the ergonomic handle, which enables easy operation with either hand. A ZAPI handheld console displays diagnostic tools and power configurations. Available options include cold conditioning, a 48” load back rest for the chassis, and nonstandard fork sizes. “The PDS30 is technologically advanced but user-friendly,” confirms Mike Poeltl, Blue Giant’s Marketing Manager. “Built-in productivity enhancements, superior AC power, and a short turning radius for crowded facilities all ensure efficient performance during the most demanding warehouse applications.”
